forward-looking statements

This presentation and answers to questions contain forward-looking statements that require assumptions about expected future events including competition, financing, labour relations developments, and financial and operating results and guidance that are subject to inherent risks and uncertainties. TELUS' actual results, conditions, actions or events could differ materially from those expressed or implied by such statements. Factors that could cause actual results to differ materially include but are not limited to: competition; economic fluctuations; redemption, financing and debt requirements; tax matters; human resources (including ongoing impact and outcome of labour relations issues and duration and impact on operating expenses, customer service and revenue due to current labour disruption); technology (including reliance on systems and information technology); regulatory developments; process risks (including conversion of legacy systems); health and safety; litigation; business continuity events (including manmade and natural threats); and other risk factors discussed herein and listed from time to time in TELUS' reports.

For additional information on potential risk factors and assumptions, see TELUS' 2004 Annual Report, updates in 2005 quarterly interim reports and other filings with securities commissions in Canada and the United States.
